Luncheon Discussion
Series 2004

12th October 2004 "Malaysia's Political Economy After Mahathir"

For over two decades, Dr Mahathir Mohamad steered Malaysia to significant heights in political, social and economical development. 31st October 2003 marked the end of an era for Malaysia as he stepped down and passed on the rein of leadership to Abdullah Ahmad Badawi.

As Malaysia's fifth premier, Badawi no doubt has big shoes left behind by Mahathir to fill. Has much changed in the political and economic arena since Mahathir's retirement? Are there significant political implications to Malaysia with the recent release of former deputy, Anwar Ibrahim? What are the key challenges for Badawi?

Join us on 12th October 2004 at the Regent Hotel, Boardroom 2/3 from 12-2pm, in an open and exclusive Discussion with Dr K.S. Jomo, author of more than 50 books and Visiting Senior Research Fellow, Asia Research Institute, National University of Singapore, as he shares his views on the post-Mahathir era for Malaysia.
